2005 ADEQUATE YEARLY PROGRESS (AYP) DATA FILE REPORT

In order to meet Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) for 2005, a school or district must meet three targets: 1) attendance or graduation rate depending on the level of the school, 2) participation rate and 3) performance on the PSSA. The table below identifies your district and the schools in your district. All district information in this and subsequent tables is shown in the rows highlighted in yellow. All columns highlighted in blue in subsequent tables show if the school has met that target. The column highlighted in blue on this table indicates if your district and each school in your district have met AYP for 2005. The last column on the right indicates the 2005 AYP status based upon previous years' status.

In the "Met AYP" column:

- *SH indicates that AYP was met because of the Safe Harbor provision.
- *CI indicates that AYP was met because of the use of a Confidence Interval.
- *SHCI indicates that AYP was met because of the use of a Confidence Interval for the Safe Harbor provision.
- *PPI indicates that AYP was met because of the Pennsylvania Performance Index.
- *APP indicates that AYP was met because of an appeal.
- *PR indicates that AYP was met because of the use of 14% proxy (see the 2005 memo from Executive Deputy Secretary Zahorchak for explanation).

In the "Status" columns:

- Corrective Action II² indicates that the school or district is in Corrective Action II for the second year.
- Corrective Action II³ indicates that the school or district is in Corrective Action II for the third year.
