APR 20 21

Earth Day
2021
is April 22

Each year on April 22, more than one billion people take part in Earth Day. Across the globe, individuals, communities, organizations, and governments acknowledge the amazing planet we call home and take action to protect it. Though we may not be able to singlehandedly change the world, we can teach our children to live responsibly and to take care of our planet by making wise choices that focus on a greener future.

Celebrating All Our Superhero Students

Mom, Christine Derengowski, shared that a teacher asked students via zoom class to write 5 sentences about their "best" day. After the Mom struggled through so many tears to get her child to complete this assignment she said, "Honey, you don't have to write about your best day, just write 5 sentences." The child, on the brink of more tears responded, "I'll get in trouble. I am doing a bad job in first grade." The mom calmly said, "You won't get in trouble and you won't fail first grade. In fact- you are kind of like a superhero!" The child sat up and wiped his tears as mom continued...."Do you know that NO kids in the history of kids have ever had to do what you are doing right now?" No kids have ever had to do school at home, sitting in their bedroom, with their teacher on a computer because the school was closed. You and all your classmates are making history!" The little superhero wiped his tears and sat up a little taller in his chair.

Sometimes we haven't given nearly enough credit to our kids for rolling with the punches this year. We have heralded the accomplishments of everyone from healthcare to grocery store workers and so many others who have worked hard. Now it's time to honor another Superhero. Our students. We are so proud of all the kids this year for doing the nearly impossible task of completing their work against all odds. For being resilient and rolling with the punches each time another change happened, even when things didn't seem to make sense to them. We honored those Superheroes this month and let them know the Cafeteria Staff thinks they have done an Great Job this year.
