PRODUCTION APPROACH

ORIONVEGA'S APPROACH FOR VIDEO PRODUCTION CAN BE BROKEN DOWN INTO TWO PHASES, THE PROPOSAL PHASE AND THE PRODUCTION PHASE.

PROPOSAL PHASE

In the Proposal Phase, we begin with a client meeting, either in person or by phone when a face-to-face meeting isn't practical. In the client meeting we discuss different ideas and methods in order to arrive at a solution that meets different production and budget needs. When we have a firm grasp on the task at hand, we develop a written proposal that includes an overview of the project, a description of our methodology, a production schedule, and a line-item budget based on our previous discussions. Any questions or concerns are discussed and necessary adjustments are made, after which the proposal is approved and signed by the client and production begins.

PRE-PRODUCTION

Laying the right groundwork is essential to developing a great video. Pre-production is where we figure out the best game plan for your video project. We decide on the video concept, the look/feel and style, we write the script, decide on filming locations, and lock down the details with how the actual video is going to look, sound, and perform.

This proposal includes 2 scripts being developed by a contracted scriptwriter.

A kickoff and content development meeting will take place between the client, Joe Serkoch (producer) and the scriptwriter. During this kickoff meeting we will gather all information needed to develop the scripts, discuss logistics for the shoot dates and answer any questions. A 2nd meeting will be scheduled to discuss the developed scripts and collect feedback needed to finalize all content. Shoot dates will be scheduled and we will move into production.

PRODUCTION

We're rolling! Your video will be filmed over the course of 1 shooting day. How this day is scheduled and what we will film over the course of these filming days will be determined in coordination with the client. Each filming day lasts 10 hours maximum.

POST-RODUCTION

If production is putting all the ingredients together to bake the cake from the recipe developed in pre-production, then post-production is putting the icing on that cake and making it look and sound irresistibly delicious.

Before any editing begins, a nation wide casting call for voiceovers will take place. Based on your feedback we will specifically search for a voice that fits the style, age, gender and level of delivery you wish. After listening to all applicants, we will select the top 5 to 8 voices that we feel "hit the mark" and send them to you for selection. Once selected, the VoiceOver will be recorded and sent to our post production suite for editing.

Our editorial post-production team kicks into gear and cuts together your story. Color-correction, audio editing, adding music, creating graphics and animations, makes sure your video looks exactly like we planned in pre-production. It's at this stage that you'll see the first cut.

FINAL REVISIONS

Once you've seen the first cut, you'll have a chance to share your thoughts and feedback with us. There is one round of revisions allowed at this stage, within reasonable expectations and within the scope of the original video concept. Keep in mind, the pre-production process and previous approval milestones limit the changes typically made, at this point in the process.

OUTPUT

With the final cut complete and your approval signed-off, we create high quality files of your video that can be used for a variety of formats, be it for the web, screen presentation or broadcast television.

FOOTAGE/IMAGE RIGHTS

The client retains rights and ownership to the edited videos, upon receipt of final payment. Any stock photo or video rights are transferred to the client, upon final payment. The raw footage is archived with redundant backup at Orionvega for a period of 5 years with payment of the Master Archive fee. If you wish to take the raw footage, you may do so for an additional cost. These additional costs include our hourly edit suite rate for the time required to organize and transfer the footage. External hard drive and the shipping or delivery charges are also calculated. Additional processing of your footage (file conversion, coloring, etc.) will be provided at normal hourly rates depending upon your needs.

TIMEFRAME

TO COMPLETE THE WORK OUTLINED IN THE PRODUCTION APPROACH, WE'LL NEED APPROXIMATELY 8 WEEKS FROM BEGINNING TO END, DEPENDING ON WHEN WE RECEIVE FEEDBACK AT EACH MILESTONE. UPON SIGNING THE PROPOSAL WE ARE PREPARED TO START WORK IMMEDIATELY.
