To Whom It May Concern:

Dr. Sathya Lingaraju was a consultant Pediatrician and Adolescent Physician for Hillsdale School during the 1994-95 school year in affiliation with Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh. Dr. Lingaraju was a most valuable resource person and consultant for our Instructional Support Team (IST) as well as to our teachers within the school setting. Dr. Lingaraju interacted superbly with school personnel and her professionalism permeated throughout the school. She was totally respected by the entire staff. I believe she would be a tremendous asset to any school district seeking her services. If there would be a need for any additional information regarding Dr. Lingaraju please do not hesitate to contact me at the above phone number.

Dear Dr. Lingaraju:

First, I want to express our sincere appreciation to you for your outstanding presentation at the Advocacy Seminar we conducted for the Executive Directors of Big Brothers/Big Sisters on April 26th. Several of the participants noted that they especially appreciated meeting you and hearing from you.

Secondly, I want to let you know what a loss we shall be experiencing without you here in Virginia. Perhaps your greatest contribution, in our estimation, has been the visibility you have given to children's health issues. Your clarity on topics relating to child health has enabled many lay persons to develop greater appreciation for the work and emphases of our Health Department, and your participation in policy meetings has been especially noteworthy.

My staff joins me in extending best wishes to you in your new position. Thank you for caring. Keep in touch.

Dear Dr. Lingaraju:

On behalf of the Department of Education, we wish to take this opportunity to say sincerely and simply, thank you for your participation in the Statewide Conference for Local School Division Administrators of Special Education Programs and Services on October 10, 1985.

Your presentation was an essential part of the program and it gave attention to critical issues involving health care services for handicapped children. From a review of the conference evaluation forms, your workshop session was evaluated by the participants as being most beneficial in terms of the appropriateness and relevance of the information shared.

I wish for you continued success in your professional endeavors to upgrade the quality of health care programs and services for handicapped children.

Again, please accept our thanks for helping to make this conference a success.

On behalf of the Delaware PTA, I want to thank you for sharing your expertise and knowledge about children's health care issues with us. Your presentation was very well received by the attendees at our conference and underscored the need for them and other PTA members to support the work of the Department of Public Health as it seeks to provide health care for all children and adolescents in the state.

I hope that the Department of Public Health and the Delaware PTA will continue to communicate and work together to meet the needs of children. Please let me know if there are issues that PTA could help the Department with in terms of contacting legislators or other decision-makers. We are very impressed with the report of the Child Health Task Force and thank you for sharing that report with us.

I look forward to talking with you again.

I think the Child Health Task Force in Delaware has done a superb job of putting together an impressive body of information on the current health care needs of children in Delaware and beginning to take the important steps to developing an improved system of care.

I hope by now you are settled into your new surroundings in Delaware. I did not have the opportunity to personally say good-bye and wish you well in your new position.

I would like to express my appreciation for your work at Children's Specialty Services. You were instrumental in bridging the gap in planning for health and other developmental services for children with special needs and the establishment of essential programs. Your efforts as an advocate for children and families succeeded in improving the health and well-being of Virginia's children.

We are saddened that we will no longer enjoy your expertise on a regular basis, but hope that we may call on you from time to time for input on vital questions concerning services for children and families. Best of luck in your new position.

Dear Sathya:

Greetings! I hope all is well with you. Finally, I have a copy of the High Priority Infant Tracking Program Pilot Project Year I Report to share with you. The Report will give you an update of the happenings of the tracking program.

This program owes such a lot to you. Your vision for this program and the organization of support that you built continues to be the foundation that the program relies on.

Due to interest in the ongoing operation of the tracking program, the Office of the Secretary of Health and Human Services negotiated to secure $147,000 in federal Part-H funds from the Department of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse Services, and $30,000 in general state funds for each year of the 93-94 biennium. Getting any dollars in today's economic climate in Virginia is a victory. So, the High Priority Infant Tracking Program will continue with expansion and planning toward growth into a statewide system.

None of this would be possible except for your insightful vision for this program and your ability to establish a good statewide base of support. The program continues to benefit from your efforts. Thank you.

Sincerely,

✓ RE: Sathyavathi Lingaraju, M.D.

Dear Sir:

My involvement with Dr. Lingaraju has been through injury prevention programs in the State of Virginia. Firstly, she funds the Poison Center that I direct and with her assistance, we have developed a Health-Injury Prevention Education position which is broader than poisoning. Secondly, we have worked on Public Education and Professional Education programs regarding injury prevention.

It is my opinion that Dr. Lingaraju's understanding of the Injury Prevention literature and her ability to assess this type of epidemiological and clinical data is excellent. She arrives at well balanced conclusions and derives from them strategies for activities which are both well targeted and possible. She remains undaunted by the beurocracy in which she works. Her calm, thoughtful style, I am sure, is essential to her productivity.

I have seen her sufficiently to have firm opinion that she is a woman of extraordinary intellectual honesty, that will not be easily undermined by the necessities of political whim. I hold her in high esteem and enjoy the colleagueship which I have with her.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Palmer:

Sathyavathi Lingaraju, M.D., has worked for the Division of Public Health exactly one year. Her basic function was to develop and improve our high-risk infant and assessment (school-age) clinics in the lower portion of Delaware. After a year I can state that her efforts are above expectation.

Her developmental pediatric skills are good; she obviously feels that they need improvement. Her interaction with patients and co-workers is excellent, certainly not requiring further training. Sathyavathi's greatest asset is a remarkable interest in all aspects of maternal and child health but focused on children with special needs.

This talented lady will succeed in any effort she chooses. The services to special-needs children in Delaware would miss her greatly, but I would be less than honest if I did not wholeheartedly recommend her for your program.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

MEMORANDUM:

TO: ALL STAFF

FROM: Charles Konigsberg, Jr., M.D., M.P.H.

DATE: October 2, 1992

SUBJECT: Leadership for Maternal and Child Health

I am pleased to announce, effective immediately, that Dr. Sathyavathi Lingaraju is director for the Maternal and Child Health Branch within the Health Monitoring and Consultation Section. Ms. Deborah Clendaniel will serve as a deputy, with specific responsibilities for administrative matters and for the nutrition programs.

I am excited about this assignment for Dr. Lingaraju. I would ask all who work directly with or have some relationship with the MCH programs to work cooperatively with Dr. Lingaraju. MCH can and should play a key role in this changing health care world here in Delaware. I challenge all to think positively, look at what is happening around us and pull together to make MCH an important factor in determining health care policy in this state.

Dear Dr. Lingaraju:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank you so very much for your involvement in the Delaware surveys of adolescent health, school wellness centers, parents, and school officials. From our recent conversations with the Department of Health, we understand that there has been a flurry of activity associated with these findings, and a rapidly developing agenda related to school-based services and adolescents' access to and utilization of primary care services.

It is particularly gratifying for us to see these kinds of developments which parallel the community and state activation that occurred in Minnesota in the late 1980's, related to our statewide adolescent health survey and the subsequent institutionalization of a similar survey every two years by the Minnesota Department of Education.

We look forward to the widespread dissemination of the survey results and the creative ways that health and education officials in Delaware will use the information in order to promote the health, well-being, and educability of Delaware students. We, at the National Adolescent Health Resource Center, will be happy to provide any additional guidance or benefits of the experience we have had with survey dissemination over the past several years. We wish you all the best in your important efforts.
